FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Martin Yadrick Receives Top Honors at NAFEM Show

Chatsworth, Calif. March 4, 2009—Martin Yadrick, MS, MBA, RD, FADA, Director of Nutrition Informatics for Computrition, Inc., has been granted the prestigious Doctorate of Food Service (DFS) designation at the North American Association of Food Equipment Manufacturers (NAFEM) Annual Conference, held on February 6, 2009 at the Orange County Convention Center in Orlando, Fla. Because of his service on the Board as President of the American Dietetic Association, as well as for his work serving in multiple capacities to promote the field of Dietetics and Nutrition, Yadrick joined 42 allied Association leaders to NAFEM in receiving the Honor.

The American Dietetic Association (ADA), for which Yadrick has been an active member since 1981 and volunteer leader at all levels since 1988, is the Nation's largest organization of food and nutrition professionals. For over two decades, he has worked tirelessly in support of the Association to promote diversity within the Organization, amongst numerous initiatives.

As part of many career successes, Yadrick currently represents Computrition, Inc. as the Director of Nutrition Informatics for the California-based provider of integrated software solutions for the healthcare and hospitality industries. Yadrick will add the prestigious Doctorate of Food Service Honor to his many achievements, a few of which include his achievement as a Fellow of the American Dietetic Association, as well as being recognized as a past Recognized Young Dietitian of the Year recipient from Missouri. He has also earned the 2006 Distinguished Service Award from the California Dietetic Association, along with the 2004 SCAN Achievement Award from the ADA Dietetic Practice Group of Sports, Cardiovascular and Wellness Nutritionists.
